

---

“ For me, the actual process of painting, the physical activity of it, the manipulation of the medium and the subconscious imagery that surface are of interest to me. I want to validate my relationship with them but they are suspect. I destroy many of these images trying to articulate the elusive. It’s an emotional and intellectual struggle that never seems to end.”